For Language Arts Part A: Writing Provincial Achievement Tests, teacher supervisors, under the direction of the principal, are expected to uphold provincial achievement test security by maintaining a continuous writing time. If it is required, based on individual student needs or the entire classes, to administer a short, supervised break, the teacher supervisor must receive approval from the principal. All provincial achievement test administration rules and policies must be maintained. The amount of time consumed by a break is not included in the total provincial achievement test-taking time.

No provincial achievement tests are scheduled on June 21, National Indigenous Peoples Day.
